

End-of-Program Review 2006-07

Social Sciences in Environmental Studies Programs

Did your program include social sciences?

	Extensively	Moderately	A Little	Not at All	Social Sciences Indicated (Extent Missing)	Percent of Programs with any Social Sciences	Number of Programs with any Social Sciences	Number of Programs Responded
Environmental Studies	18.2%	36.4%	18.2%	27.3%	0.0%	73%	8	11
All programs	36.4%	22.0%	17.8%	22.9%	0.8%	77%	91	118

Descriptions of programs on next page.

Programs with Social Sciences	Extent	Fields
			Introductory	Intermediate	Advanced
Energy Matters	Extensively	This was the 2nd major program emphasis: Public Law, Anthropology, Social Justice, International Relations, Economics - all with respect about level of demand for fuels and electricity, pricing, availability and production hazards (including radioactive waste) outsourced and disproportionately born by lower income minorities.			X
Nuisance to Negligence: Environmental Law	Extensively	Public Policy; Public Law (legislative, regulatory and case law); Social, Environmental, and Criminal Justice; Economics; Business; and Sociology		X	X
Animal Behavior	Moderately	Anthropology, Psychology, Game Theory (Economics)			X
Practice of Sustainable Agriculture	Moderately	Community Development, Decision Making, Marketing	X
Sustainable Futures: Moving Into the Post-Petroleum Age	Moderately	Local/International Politics, International Relations, Social Theory (structure, organization), International Environment Policy	X
Living in Extreme Environments	A Little	Human Ecology, History, Cartography	X
Nature of Natural History	A Little	Social Justice, Economics	X		