

End-of-Program Review 2010-11

Community-based Project(s) and/or Service Learning in Inter-Area Programs (IA)

Did your program include community-based project(s) and/or service learning?

	Yes	No	Programs With any CB/SL (N)	Programs Responded (N)
Inter-Area	34.8%	65.2%	8	23
All Programs	35.4%	64.6%	35	99

Note: Courses, contracts and internships programs were not asked to participate in the End-of-Program Review.

IA programs with community-based project(s) and/or service learning	Description of activities
From Problems to Issues to Policies	Water officials Mike McCanna; Rich Hoey; LOTT Treatment Plant field trip; Department of Ecology Brownsfields managers inc. John Means; Jenna McCartney and Jason Doudt, State Legislature and other regional professionals acted as field supervisors for program research projects *we saw the manhole covers that are sculpted in Downtown Olympia as part of the next answer.
Environmental Analysis	Students worked with community collaborators in the Nature Conservancy on their major winter quarter project (a study of invasive species and stream processes conducted in Western Washington streams). In addition, many students participated in in-program internships with groups including People for Puget Sound, the Nature Conservancy, USFWS, and others during the spring quarter.
Native Decolonization in the Pacific Rim: From the Northwest to New Zealand	Students could participate in community-based projects in Winter quarter as part of the major project.
Mount Rainier: The Place and its People	Service learning: 3 days Fall quarter at Mt. Rainier National Park; 1 day winter quarter, Nisqually River watershed; 1 day spring quarter, Mt. Rainier National Park. Community-based projects: All students participated in spring quarter 12-credit community-based projects at Mount Rainier, in the Nisqually watershed, with local NGOs, etc.
The Past and Future of American Youth	Service at local youth sites, schools, after school programs.
Rethinking the Suburbs	Internships
Bodies of Knowledge	For their independent project in spring quarter, several students (~10%) carried out internships with non-profit organizations in the community (Books to Prisoners, Thurston County Needle Exchange Program, Crisis Clinic of Thurston and Mason County)
Dance of Consciousness	1/3 of students did volunteer work such as Books to Prisoners, Organic Farming (for Olympia Community).