Alumni Use of and Satisfaction with Resources – 2014 & 2016 Alumni Surveys

Alumni were asked about their use and participation and satisfaction with the following resources: Campus library, Campus Computing Resources, Academic Advising Office, workshops, Financial Aid Office or on-site Financial Aid Counselor, Health Center, Counseling Center or on-site counselor, Media Loan, Photo Services/ Photoland, Electronic Media, Writing Center or writing tutors, Quantitative and Symbolic Reasoning Center, College Recreation Center, Athletics, or rec programs, Center for Community-Based Learning & Action or in-program CCBLA workshop/activity, Housing/Residential Life, and the Veterans Resource Center.

Use of Resources

Significant differences between populations.¹

Among Evergreen Olympia alumni survey respondents, females were more likely than males to have used the Financial Aid Office, and significantly less likely to have used the Quantitative and Symbolic Reasoning (QuaSR) Center.

Low-income alumni were more likely to have used the Financial Aid Office and the Counseling Center, and significantly less likely to have used Housing/Residential Life programming.

First-generation alumni were more likely to have used the Financial Aid office and the Veterans Resource Center and less likely to have used the Health Center, Media Loan, and Housing/Residential Life programming.

Alumni who reported a disability while at Evergreen were more likely to have used the Counseling Center than alumni without a reported disability.

Satisfaction with Resources

Significant differences between populations², of those who used resources while at Evergreen. Not shown on chart of resource use.

Males had higher satisfaction with Electronic Media and the Veterans Resource Center.

Low-income alumni had higher satisfaction with Housing and Residential Life.

First-generation alumni had higher satisfaction with the Financial Aid Office and the Veterans Resource center; they had lower satisfaction with the Health Center and Media Loan.

Non-traditional age alumni had lower satisfaction with Campus Computing resources.

Alumni who reported a disability during their time at Evergreen had higher satisfaction with the Health Center.

Alumni of Color had higher satisfaction with the Financial Aid Office and Photo Services; they had lower satisfaction with Academic Advising.
