

What resources or support would help you craft your academic statement?

Students were asked the open-ended question "What resources or support would help you craft your academic statement?" 27 Tacoma students responded. Responses were categorized into groups and analyzed. Tacoma students most often mentioned the Writing Center (44.4%), followed by Examples, Better Definition of the Academic Statement, and those who didn't need any resources or support or were already finished with their Academic Statement (11.1%). Other responses are listed on the next page.

What resources or support would help you craft your academic statement?

The Writing Center

The Writing Center [3]

The writing center at Evergreen.

The writing center is a very important resource used when writing my academic statement.

The writing Center Open 7 days a week - open the computer lab 7 days a week and late hours

The Writing Center/ Tutors and colleagues from class.

Writing center access. Examples

Writing center, computer lab, staff feedback

Examples

Examples of other ones. Maybe a class.

Examples of other statements from students

Writing center access. Examples

No Resources Needed / I've already completed the Academic Statement

None

I have already completed my academic statement.

I have already written and advised it.

Better Definition of the Academic Statement

A better explanation and clearly state what is expected of students. I researched the website and its confusing, I had to guess what is expected of me and am utilizing writing tutors to help me with it.

Better explanation of what the school is looking for in it.

An idea of what employers are looking for or good ideas that may work.

Other Categories, and Other comments

A survey like this is a great prompter. It should be mandated — even for the initial academic statement!

Books and movies

Childcare

Class draft writing day so we can confirm progress with [infrastructure]

Having more support with campus instructors.

I am not sure how to do the academic statement so I am unsure what resources or support would help me craft one.

I think more effort need to be made to serve Tacoma students most we pay the same amount to attend as the students on the main campus. In short those resources would help.

Just the knowledge in keeping up with my grammar and process of writing good papers correctly. the writing and tutor center, very helpful

The tutoring center, my past work, past evaluations, as well as questioning those that have observed me during my academic journey.

To have a conversation or presentation at the beginning of junior year.