

SUMMER CONTRACT 2012: FACULTY: LINDA MOON STUMPF

Group Contract Title: Publish to Flourish: Part I

Target audience: graduate students, community students with an existing BA or BS, and upper division students (by signature) who have completed an advanced research paper.

Undergraduate students should submit their proposed paper to me at stumpfl@evergreen.edu for approval before registering for this class.

Credits

2 unit option: completion of course requirements and preparation of one paper for publication

4 unit option: completion of course requirements and preparation of two papers for publication

This group contract is designed as an introduction to the world of publishing for students who have completed a major research project. Two orientation meetings are required. The class will explore various journals, magazines, and e-publishing opportunities through library research and seminar papers. Each student will read one book and at least four journal articles and complete two seminar papers on the readings. They can then begin rewriting and revising an existing research paper for publication. It is expected that three drafts will be required. One of the drafts will be peer reviewed by member of the class. Students will submit a publication plan describing where they will submit their final revised work. Finally, each student will submit the last revised work to the faculty via e-mail for review.

Orientation Meeting 1: 9-12 Saturday June 16 Exploring the world of publishing: where does your work fit? Where will it be the most effective? Location TBA

Orientation Meeting II: 9-12 Saturday June 31. Peer review sessions
